

The cat purred and leapt into Gloomin's arms.
She nuzzled close and said:

*Now you can see how busy I've been.
Here are two kittens, fit for a queen.*

Gloomin bent down. He stroked the little kittens. Then he smiled so broadly that all one hundred and four teeth showed.